HEAVY-DUTY PAPER SHREDDER - NEW (about $1,000) or USED (would be great, too!)

KIRC uses all excess office paper, but our little office shredder can't handle the volume. Shredded paper is bagged and sent to Kaho'olawe where Restoration Division staff and volunteers compost it with food scraps. Once composted, it's taken to planting areas, mixed with mulching materials (including wood chips) and, mulched around fragile native plantings, shrubs - and soon trees - creating mini-ecosystems that protect the plants. As it decomposes, it breaks up the hardpan, allowing our native plants to sink their roots into living soil.
